Q & A

What's with this? Why register cameras at Burning Man?

- 1.) To protect Burning Man. Nobody wants to see Burning Man on a Nike ad.
- 2.) To protect our privacy. This is not Spring Break at Fort Lauderdale. Most of us come to Burning Man to enjoy and explore freedoms that we don't experience elsewhere. We choose to express ourselves as we please, to dress or undress as we please. This is a form of radical self-expression. The issue is: do you want some protection from having your image exploited by pornographers. Unlike the rest of us, pornographers don't do it for free.
- 3.) To protect artists' rights. Artists need protection against commercial exploitation of their work by third parties.

Can I put a few clips up on my web site?

Sure, as long as you're not selling them, and as long as your web site does not sell any other product or service, and as long as your web site clearly does not purport or appear to be an official website of Burning Man or Black Rock City LLC.

What if I don't sign this agreement and tag my camera?

You will not be able to film at the event. If you attempt to film without a tag, you may be expelled.

What if I'm making a commercial video, or I change my mind and want to sell my footage?

Commerce isn't evil; artists have a right to sell their work – but we oppose turning Burning Man into a commodity. If you desire to film for a commercial purpose, you can do so only if you receive a written approval from Burning Man for your proposed project. You must check in with our friendly Media Ho's at Media Mecca in Center Camp! Please note that receiving a tag for your camera, whether a personal use tag or a commercial use tag, does not mean that Burning Man has granted you any rights to use the footage you obtain except for personal use. You can obtain the right to use footage for other than personal use only if you receive written permission from Burning Man.

How much time do I have to think about this agreement?

Your time is up.
